The Fate of Blood-thirsty Oppress, and GOD's tender Care of his distressed People.

R M O H) N.

PREACHED AT LEXINGTON,

APRIL 19, 1776.

To commemorate the MURDER, BLOOD. SHED and Commencement of Hostilities, between Great-Britain and America, in that Town, by a Brigade of Troops of GEORGE III, under Command of Lieutenant-Colonel SMITH, on the Nineteenth of APRIL, 1775.

TO WHICH IS ADDED,

A BRIES NARRATIVE of the principal Transactions of that Day.

MASSACHUSETTS-STATE: BOSTON >

BY POWARS AND WILLIS. PRINTD M, D C C, L X X V L

The fate of blood-thirsty oppresses, and GOD's care of his distressed people.

JOEL, III. 19, 20 and 21.

EGYPT shall be a defolation, and EDOM shall be a defolate wilderness, for the violence against the children of Judah, because they have bed INNO-CENT BLOOD in their land. But Judah shall dwell for ever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation. For I will cleanse their blood that I have not cleansed; for the LORD dwelleth in Zion.

> EXT to the acknowledgement of the existence of a Deity, there is no one principle of greater importance in religion, than a realizing belief of the divine government and providence, as superintending the affairs of the universe, and intimately concerned in whatever happens to mankind, both as nations and kingdoms, and as individuals.

Deeply to be impressed with a fense of the divine providence, to realize that GoD is Govornor among the nations, that his government is wife and just, and that all our times and changes are in his hands, and at his disposal, will have the happiest tendency to excite the most grateful acknowledgements of his goodnels in prosperity, the most cordial resignation to his paternal discipline in adversity, and the most placid composure and equanimity of mind in all the changing scenes of life. Inspired with this divine principle.

Habt

5

6 The fate of blood-thirsty oppress, and

light, the goodnefs of God in profperous events, and devoutly acknowledge and adore his fovereign hand in days of darknefs and perplexity, and when the greateft difficulties prefs. This will be a fource of comfort and fupport under private afflictions and trials, and this fhall encourage our hope in God and truft in his name, under public calamities and judgments.— Yea, however dark and myfterious the ways of previdence may appear; yet nothing fhall overwhelm the mind, or defiroy the truft and hope of thofe, that realize the government of heaven,—that realize, that an alwife Gov is feated on the throne, and that all things are well appointed for his chofen people,—for them that fear him.

This principle and thefe featiments therefore, being of to great use and importance in religion, under the various diffentations of providence, one great delign of the prefent discourse, is to rouse and excite us to a religious acknowledgm int of the hand of God, in those districting feenes of MURDER, BLCOD-SHED and WAR, we are met to commemorate, upon this folemn occasion The passage before us, it is humbly conceived, is well fuited to confirm eur falch, to excite our truft, and encourage our hope, under such awful dispensations, as it points out the method of Ged's gevenment and the course of his providence towards the cnemics and oppreffors of his people, and the fate of those that shed innocent blood ; and at the same time, represents his peculiar care of his church and choicn, and the affurance they have, when under oppretion, of refloration and effablishment,----and that God him*felf* will plead their caufe and both cleanfe and avenge their innocent blood. " Egypt shall be a defolation, ### and Edom shall be a desolate wilderness, for the ziience against the children of Judah, because they have

have field INNOCENT BLOOD in their land. But Judah shall dwell forever, and Jerufalem from generation to generation. For I will cleanse their blood, that I have not cleansed; for the LORD dwelleth in Zion."

It is not necessary to enquire as to the immediate occasion, or literal fulfilment of the prephecy before us, with respect to the particular nations, or kingdoms here mentioned. It is sufficient to our present purpose to observe, that  $E_{gypt}$  was early noted, in scripture hiftory, for oppreffing God's people, and caufing them to ferve with cruel bondage. Edom also is mentioned as guilty of violence towards them, and expressing a mot imbittered hatred and revenge against them; and from the expressions in the text, it is natural to fuppose, that there had been some, if not many instances of their shedding innocent blood in their land." Ifrael, God's chosen people, had often suffered violence, from both these states : So that we have good reason to suppose, that both Egypt and Edom, in the language of fcripture prophecy, in the text and other passages, may intend not Egypt or Ed-m only, but (proverbially) in a more general fense, enemies, persecutors or oppressors of God's people, who violated their rights and liberties, religious and civil, and by the fword of perfecution or oppreffion, fhed innocent blocd in their land. Prophecies, effectially those that are, or may be, of general use to the people of God, are but seldom literal, either in prediction or fulfilment. They are rather of use to foreshew great and interesting events, as taking place in the world, in fuch time and manner, and upon such persons, societies, nations, or kingdoms, as shall display the justice and equity of

divine government, and the peculiar care which Heaven

* Vid. Pfal. exxxvii. 7.

8 The fate of blood-thirsty oppress, and

Heaven takes of the church and people of God, for their correction, instruction, preservation or establishment. Agreeably St. Peter speaks strongly for this method of explaining and improving scripture prophecies, where he fays expressly, that " no prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation."* It is, therefore, rational to suppose, that though prophecies may have special or immediate reference to particular perfons, societies, nations or kingdoms, and to events in which they may be immediately interested; yet they may be fitly confidered as having a further and more important interpretation, which may be of general use for the direction and edification of God's church and people, in all ages, to the end. In this general fenfe, therefore, you will permit me to confider the prophecy in the passage before us : and thus understood, it is cafy to fee feveral things fuggested in it, worthy our most serious attention and religious improvement, upon such an occasion as this. In the first place, it is admitted, that for wife purposes, a just God may permit powerful enemies, or oppressors, to injure, do violence unto and distress his people, and to carry their measures of violence and oppression to fuch lengths among them, as to ftrike at their life and " fhed innocent blood in their land." As God is the Sovereign of the world, and exercifes his government for the glory of his name, in the good of the whole, so he hath a paternal concern for the special benefit and improvement of his church and people. All creatures are his fervants : and God accomplisheth his designs and carries his counfels to effect, by what means and inftruments he pleafes.

It is with him alone, ' who is wonderful in counfel and » 2 Pet. i. 20.

The fate of blood-thirsty oppress, and 9

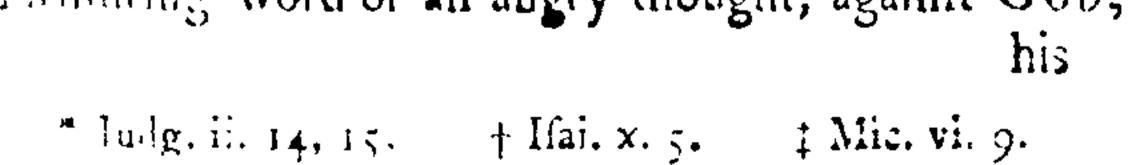

and excellent in working," to bring good out of evil. When God deligns the re roof and correction of hi people, he can exercise this holy discipline in various ways and by various means, as shall best anfwer the purpases of his government. This holy discipline is accordingly exercised, sometimes by the immediate hand of providence : as in walting licknefs parching drought, awful and defolating earthquakes, or other judgments, which are immediately from God himself. Or this may be done more immediately, by the inftrumentality of his creatures; and even the wicked, and those that love the wages of unrighteousness, that delight in oppression, waste and spoil, or thirst for innocent blood may be improved sthe rod in his hand to correct, or punish the fins of his people. With this view the oppressor is permitted to injure, infult. oppress and lay wast in a land; and to carry his measures to the shedding of innocent blood. With the fame defign does a fovereign God give the enemy a commission, in war, with fire and sword, to distress and destroy. In such public calamities, it is true, it often comes to pass, that as individuals, the innocent are involved and fuffer with the guilty; and fometimes the innocent alone. But however unjust, or cruel the oppreffor, and those that thirst for blood may be, in contriving and carrying into execution their wicked, opprilieve, or bloody deligns, they are no other than instruments in providence and the rod in the hand of the great Governor of the world, for the reproof and correction of his people. These things happen not by accident, or chance, but by the direction, or permillion of that God, who is righteous in all his ways and holy in all his works. When I fisch finned and did evil in the fight of the LORD, it is faid, " the

anger of the LORD was hot against liract, and he B delivered delivered them into the hands of fpoilers that fpoiled them, and he fold them into the hands of their enemies round about and they were greatly diffreffed."* Hence alfo the Affyrian King is expressly called "the rod of Goo's anger," for the correction of his people.† And thus Egyp and Edem, in the prophecy before us, in committing violence upon the children of Judah and in fhedding innocent blood in their land, are held up to view as the rod in Goo's hand, for the correction, reproof and instruction of his people. Agreeably, this is the language of a just and faithful Goo, in fuch dispensations, "hear ye the rod, and who hath appointed it.‡

It matters not, therefore, who are the immediate inffruments of violence and oppression, or by whose hands the blood of innocent persons is shed, or their fubstance wasted and habitations destroyed; nor yet from what motives, or views fuch acts of oppression and crue'ty are perpetrated, with respect to the religious improvement, that Gon expects us, or any people, to make of such heavy dispensations. 'Tis GOD, and his hand-'tis GOD and 'is providence, which we are first of all concerned to notice, acknowledge and improve. However unjust our fufferings may be from man; yet, when we realize the hand of Go:, the great and wife Governor of the world, as concerned herein. fience and fubmiffion is our indifpenfible duty, and no murmer, or complaint ought ever to be heard, but with reverence and humility it becomes us to box before the LORD, and adoring his fovereignty, afcribe rightcoulnels to our God. Neither the infults of oppressors, nor the flames of our once delight ul habitations, nor even the innois at blood of our brethren flain, should move to a summuring word or an angry thought, against God,

The fate of blood-thirsty oppresses, and 11

his government, or providence.-" Shall we receive good at the hand of Go>, and shall we not receive evil?"*-And " shall not the Judge of all the earth do right !"+ The more grievoully we are imitten, the more deeply we are affected, the more carefully should we endeavour to realize our dependence upon Goo, the more religiously acknowledge his hand, and the more earneltly return to him that fmites. This is the leffon of instruction, which Gov expects we should le m, by such bitter dispensations, and this the improvement he looks for, in us and his people, in order to the restoration of his favour and our redemption from enemies and oppressors, who threaten to lay walte and destroy. May these things, then, be deeply impressed on each of our hearts.-But I pass Secondly, To observe the fate of oppressors, and the fentence of heaven against those, that do violence to God's people and flied innocent blood in their land. Egypt shall be a defolation, and Edom shall be a defolate wilderness, for the violence against the children of Judah, becauje they have shed innocent blood in their land. However just it may be in Goo to correct his people, and whatever right is afcribed to him of improving the wicked, as the rod in his hand to correct, or the fword to pu ish them; yet this alters not the nature of their oppressive designs, neither docs it abate their guilt, or alleviate their crime, in these measures of injustice, violence or cruelty, by which the people of GOD are divressed. Thus Goo speaks of the Assyrian king, a prince noted in hiftory for his avarice and ambition, cruelty and oppression, (and in him, of the Asyrian state, whole character was included in that of its king) faying-" O Affyrian, the rod of mine anger, and

the * Job ii. 10. † Gen. xviii. 25.

the staff in their hand is mine indignation. I will fend him to an hypocritical nation; and against the people of my wrath will I give him a charge to take the fpoil, and to take the prey, and to tread them down like the mire of the streets. Howbeit, he meaneth not so, neither doth his heart think lo, but it is in his heart to deftroy. Wherefore it shall come to pals, that when the LORD hath performed his whole work upon mount Zion. and on Jerufalem, I will punifh the fruit of the flout heart of the king of Assyria, and the glory of his high looks."* And fo it came to pafs : For this power, that with fuch a mighty hand, and for fo long a time, oppressed God's people and other nations, in Gop's due time, felt the eight of the iron yoke, and received double for all the injuffice, oppretsion and cruelty it had exercifed towards others. In this, and many other circumstances, with which hillory abounds, it is cafy to fee the fate of the enemies of Goo's people and oppreffors of mank.nd.---But we need not go from the text, for fatisfaction in this matter. In the words of the prophecy before us, we have the functione of heaven against the oppressors of Cob's people and the doom of those common enemies of mankind, pronounced, and the reason thereof alligned, in the clearest terms. Egypt shall be a defolation, Edom skall be a desolate residerness, for the violence againsi the children of Juda, because they have shed innocent blood in their land. The LORD is a Goo, that loveth righteoufnels and hateth iniquity, in whatever fhape, or character it appears. Injultice, oppression and violence (much lefs the shedding of innocent blood) shall not pais unnoticed, by the jul. Governor of the world. Sooner, or later, a just recompence will be made upon such workers of iniquity.-Yca, though hand join in hand,

17

* Ifai. x. 5.—12.

The fate of blood-thirsty oppressors, and 13

in measures of oppression and violence, against God's people; and though their avarice, ambituon, and lawless thirst for power and domination, may carry them on, 'till their steps shall be marked with innocent blood; yet, certain it is, they shall not, finally, go unpunished. For a time, indeed, and but for a tine, such workers of unrighteousness, such destroyers of mankind may practife and prosper; but 'vengeance flow, is vengeance fure.' Their ways are marked before God. Their punishment and destruction are fealed in his prefence : And the time is hastning, when destruction, without remedy, shall be their portion.

The truth of these sentiments hath often been verified in providence, and the proud princes and the most powerful states have been taught, by fevere, by fatal experience, that defolation from the LORD swaits the impiety of those, that do volence to his people and ' fhed innocent blood in their land.' Here then we may fee the light in which that people, or nation, are to be confidered, that walk in the ways of oppression, and that chirth for and shed innoeent blood. Here we may also fee the ruin to which they are hastning, the awful judgments that await them, and the great reason they have to fear the sentence of heaven, denounced against them, in the prophecy before us, and its literal fulfilment upon them. Which naturally leads in the last place. Thirdly, To observe, in the prophecy before us, the peculiar care GOD takes of his church and people, and the affurance they have, even when actually fuffering violence and under the cruel hand of oppression, of redemption, restoration and establishment; and that Gop himfelf will plead their caufe, and both eleanse and avenge their innocent blood. Nothing

ean be more directly expressive of this sentiment, or

а

a firmer ground of assurance, for the confirmation of the faith and hope of God's chosen people in the belief of it, than the promise and prephecy, concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the text. While Egypt and Edom, while the enemies and oppressions of God's people, are doomed to that defolation, they fo justly deferve, the strongest assurances are given, " that Judah shall dwell torever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation For I, faith God, will cleanfe their blood, that I have not cleanfed : For the Lord dwelleth in Zion." The words are plain, and need no comment. They speak the language of scripture, fact and experience, for the confirmation of the faith and hope of God's church and chosen, in days of perplexity and darkness and when actually under the injustice, violence and cruelty of inveterate enemies, or blood thirsty oppress. Here are two things, for the inducement and confirmation of the faith and hope of God's church and people, in fuch times of darkness and distress, which are well worthy ferious notice and attention. First, God's word and promise, in which he assures his people, that notwithstanding the violence of their enemie against them, and the distress and forrow their oppressors may have caused them, by sheddin innocent blood among them; yet they shall never avail to overthrow, or destroy them; but they shall assuredly be redeemed and delivered out of their hands, and refored and established, as his church and people, in a flourishing state. And then, secondly, To leave no doubt upon their minds as to the fulfilment of this bleffed promite, a gracious God condescends to explain him elf in the clearest terms possible, and to fatisfy them, that nothing should fail of all that he had promised, he af-

fures them that he would take the work into his wn

The fate of blood thirsty oppress, and IŞ

hands, and see to the accomplishment of it himself: that thus it might appear to them and to the world of mankind, that the Lord was with them and dwelt n the midft of them. "Judah shall dwell forever, and Jerufalem from generation to generation : For I will cleanse their blood, that I have not cleansed; for the Lord dwelleth in Zion."---Words well fuited to chear and comfort the linking spirits of God's afflicted, oppressed people : and words which might rouse the faith, and give a fpring to the hope of the most feeble and faint-hearted, among God's people, in the depths of diffress. For God is not a man that he should lie, nor the fon of man that he fhould repent.*---'Hath he promised, and shall he not perform ?---Hath he spoken, and shall he not bring it to pass ?'---Blood is faid to be cleansed, or avenged, when justice hath taken place, and the murderer is punished. God may be faid to cleanse the innocent blood, which may have been shed among his people, by the sword of oppressors, or enemies, when in providence he undertakes for them, avenges their blood upon them that flew them, and reduces them to reason or ruin. The fword is an appeal to heaven,-when theretore, the arms of a people are eventually fuccessful, or by the immedate interpolition of providence, their enemies and oppressors are fubdued or destroyed-When a people are reinstated in peace, upon equitable terms, and established in the enjoyment of all their just rights and liberties, both civil and facred: then may 't be faid, that the Lord hath cleanfed their innocent blood, and then will it be manifeftly evident, that their God is with them and dwelleth in the midft of them.

Now of this God hath given his people the ftrongest assurances, in the prophecy before us : and these allurances

assurances are conformed by the word of God, to his people, throughout the facred scriptures. So that, though for their fins and the multitude of their transgressions, a righteous God may justly afflict and correct his people, by the hand of oppressors, and permit their most important rights to be violated, their substance destroyed, their habitations to be laid waste, or even the innocent blood of their brethren to be wantonly shed in their land; yet still he is their God, in the midst of them, and will readily appear for their help, when they return from their evil ways, acknowledge his hand and implore his mercy and allistance. This holy disciple is no more than what God hath given his people to expect, as a reproof of their declensions, and as a means of bringing them to a sense of their dependence upon him. Such difpensations, are so far from being an evidence, that God hath forfaken his people, given them up, or forgotten to be gracious, that they are rather to be confidered as demonstrations of his paternal care and faithfulness towards them. Agreeably, in his covenant with his fervant David and his house, this method of conduct is expressly stipulated, as a token of his special care and faithfulnels, and of the remembrance of the covenant he had made. " If his children forfake my law, and walk not in my judgments :--- Then will I visit their transgression with the rod and their iniquity with stripes. Nevertheles, my loving kindnels will I not utterly take from him, nor suffer my faithfulnels to fail. My covenant will I not break, nor alter the thing that is gone out of my lips."* In fuch visitations, God evidently intends the best go d of his people ; not their destruction, but their reformation ; and if they fee his hand, humble them-

* Pfal. lkxxix. 30. 31. 32 and 33

fail to remember his covenant and his promises for them, and in his due time appear, in his power and glory, for their relief.-Yea the bowels of his mercy will be moved at their diffress, and his language will be the fame as unto his people of old, when under the Egyptian yoke, they were caused to serve with cruel bondage----- I have seen, I have seen the affliction of my people which is in Egypt, and have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them."* And to encourage his faints and people, to truft on his name and hope in his mercy, a gracious God hath most explicitly promised them his presence, direction and affistance, in all their distresses, be they ever so numerous, ever so great. His language is merciful, condescending and endearing-especially when by the prophet Ifaiah, he fays to his afflicted people-" When thou paffelt through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee : When thou walkeft through the fire, thou shalt not be burnt; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee. Fer 1 am the Lord thy God, the holy One of Ifrae!, thy Saviour."+ From thefe pailiges of facred writ, it appears, that as God in intinite wisdom, sees sit to exercise his people with trials and afflictions; and fometimes to call them to pals through the depths of advertity : to he hath provided ter then fapport, and given them the greatest reason to hop the linguestence and allihance, and the ftrongefferforation, that they doll be carded through all, and in the call upsile in God, as the hely One of Ifrael, their S.ATTOUR - In fort, nothing can be concerptedive of Colls carbon La prople in difficies. and of the folid ground they have to hope for re-

18 The fate of blood-thirsty oppress, and

We may add, that further to confirm our faith and encourage our hope, in those blessed assurances of God's presence with his people, even in their heaviest trials and greatest perplexities, we might fafely appeal to the experience of his chosen, in every age, from the beginning to the prefent time. This will show how easy it is, with an infinitely wise God, to bring good out of evil, and by the over-ruling hand of Providence, to caufe the councils and measures of persecutors and oppressors, to hasten the redemption and establishment of the injured and oppressed, as well as to bring upon themfelves, that confusion and defolation they to justly deferve.-And this will also prove, how truly applicable the words of the prophet are, to God's chosen people in their diftresses. in every age, when speaking of the large experience Israel had had, of the tender love and faithful care of a merciful God exercifed towards them, he fays, that, " In all their affliction he was afflicted, and the angel of his prefence faved them : In his love and in his pity he redeersed them, and he bare them, and carried them all the days of old.*" Nothing is more evident from hiftory and experience, than God's care of his people, and the wifdom of his providence, in caufing the violence and oppreffion of their enemies, to operate for their advantage, and promote their more speedy deliverance. This appears too plain, from various instances, to admit of difpute. The children of Israel would not have been, so early, perfuaded to have left the gardens of Egypt or the tertile fields of the land of Goshen, and in the face of every danger, attempted to free themfelves from the Egyptian yoke, had not their burdens been increafed to an unreasonable degree, by the violence ### and and in unrearonable degree, by the protected and and and cruelty of those that oppressed them, in that house of bondage. And Pharoah and his armies would never have met with that disgraceful defeat, and awful destruction, which overtook them in the red sea, had they not been infatuated to pursue their measures of oppression and violence, when after it was evident that their cause was desperate, and that God was against them.

Christendom would never have been roused, from that state of ignorance, and darkness, and flavery it was in—the protestant league would never been entered into with such simmels and resolution, to shake off the papal yoke, and redeem both church and state from the hierarchy of Rome, had not the enormities and violence of that power, by which they had been so long oppressed, role to an intolerable heighth, and put them upon the expedient.* The united states of Holland would not have been very easily induced, to have opposed the power of Spain, when at the meridian of its strength and glory, much

* The event of this bold attempt was happy. A just and faithful God crowned the measures. of the confederate states, with fuccefs, beyond their most fanguine expectations. The church was refcued from the durkness and error, in which it had been involved for several hundred years before. A glorious reformation took place, which in a good meafure, reftored the christian religion to its ancient purity and native simplicitly, in many principal states and kingdoms in Europe. And a foundation was laid for refcuing the civil liberties of individuals, focieties, states and kingdoms, as well as the common rights of mankind, from the iron hand of tyranny, the good effects of which was feld, by the protestant states and kingdoms, for feveral ages fucceeding, and are not totally loft as to fome, even at the present day, though more than two centuries fince. By this important confederacy of the protestant powers, in Europe, it is evident, that, under providence, the power of the beast and #### the false prophet received a shock which it hath never recovered. —the papal power, both in church and state, having been upon the decline, from that time to this.

20 The fate of blood-thirsty oppressions; and much lefs to have attempted indépendence of that kingdom, had they not been effectually convinced, by a long feries of injuries and oppression, and numberlefs violations of their most facred rights, that there was no other remedy.*

Britons would never have refifted their kings, and flown to arms, in defence of their invaluable rights and liberties, had they not felt the weight of the iron rod

* It is worthy of semark, that when the Spanifb court undertook the subjugation of the Dutch provinces in the Netherlands, Spain was in the most respectable state, it had been for a long time; having just concluded a victorious war, and being then at peace with all the world. At the fame time, Spain had the belt regulated army in Europe, commanded by the renowned Duke of Alva, the most experienced General then upon the stage. This wife, experienced and victorious General, with his veteran, victorious troops, was fent by the Monarch and court of Spain (like Gage to Britain) upon the subolefome and pacific bufiness of supporting government in the Dutch provinces, and enforcing obedience to what were called the laws of the kingdom, or the mandates of their sovereign. Accordingly, after renewed injuries and repeated infults and cruelties, which rather invigorated than difficarined the free and truly noble spirits of the Dutch, at last, it came to blood !- The concest was, as might be expected. long and bitter !---But, under every disadvantage, but the rightcousness of their cause, they role superior to their mighty and numerous oppressors; and neaven, at length, decided in their favour, crowned their endeavours with defired fuccefs, and gave and established unto their that freedom and independence. for which they had to bravely fought and for greely bled. This freedom and independense, so dearly purch fed, they well knew how to prize and preferve ; and by the fmiles of heaven, upon the wildom and policy of their government, they have new enjoyed the blefings thereof, with but little interruption from enomies abroad, or factions at home, for near two hundred years . And, in proportion to the extent of their territories and the number of inhabitants, they are, at this very time, jutly effcemed one of the richeft and molt flourishing flates in Europe. Thus both a righteous God been pleased to plead their cause, and eleanse and #### averge their innocent blocd; and fet them free from the oppiesfors hand. Is not the cause of Americans equally just ?--- Is not their God the same ?

rod of oppression and tyranny. and seen their danger and the absolute necessity of such resistance, to prevent the total deprivation. of all they held dear and facred. as Freemen, Christians and a free People.— Charles would not have lost his kingdom, and finally his life upon the Scaffold, by the hand of the executioner; nor James been obliged, in difgrace, to quit his throne and abdicate the government of the kingdom, had it not been for their own violent counfels and measures, to oppress and enflave the people, whom they were called to govern and protect.

Our fathers would never have forfook their native land, delightfome habitations and fair possessions, and in the face of almost every danger and distress, sought a fafe retreat, for the enjoyment of religious and civil liberty, among favage beafts and more favage men in the inhospitable wilds of America; had they not been drove from thence, by the violence and cruelty of perfecutors and oppress, in church and state. The hierarchy of the church, by which they looked upon the rights of confcience infringed, and the arbitrary measures of the state, by which they effected their civil liberties abridged, if not grofsly violated, rather than any views of worldly gain (as hath been envioufly hinted by fome) were the principal causes of their emigration, and the hope and expectation of deliverance therefrom, gave the fpring to the hazzardous undertaking. And when heaven so far smiled upon their enterprize, as to give them footing in the land; and when, after numerous hardships and dangers, toils and diftresses, they had secured a possession for themselves and posterity, and obtained a confirmation of those civil and religious liberties they had fought; ftill retaining a filial affection towards their native country,

they feemed to have nothing more at heart than that Americans

22 The fate of blood thirsty oppress, and

Americans might be happy, in the enjoyment of their just rights and liberties, as men and christians, under the protection of Britain; and that Britain might be flourishing and glorious, in receiving the profits of the labour, trade and industry of Americans: And that the connection of America with Britain, and her dependence, in this way, upon the Parent State, might have been preferved inviolate to the end of time.— And it may be added, that there is no just ground to suppose, that it would have ever entered the heart of Americans, to have defired a diffolution of so happy a connection with the Mother-Country, or to have fought independence of Britain, had they not been urged, and even forced upon such an expedient, by measures of oppression and violence, and the sheading of innocent blood.

But, alas !--Ill-judged counfels !--Ill-fated meafures of Britain, and the Briti/b administration, with respect to America, have broken in upon the pleasing scene, and fatally destroyed the happy prospects of both Britain and America !

At the close of the laft war, we arrived at that happy period, to which our ancestors lo ked, with carneft expectation as the utmost of their wifnes, as the answer of their prayers, and the reward of all their toils and fufferings. The favages were fubdued, those resulters neighbours, the Frenc were fubjected, and this wide extended continent feemed to be given us for a possession : And we were ready to fay, ' there was none to make us atraid.'—But how uncertain the most blooming prospects ?—How vain how disappointing the most rational, as well as raifed expectations, in this imperfect state?—Scarcely emerged from the dangers and fatigues of a long and ## distressing war, we are unexpectedly involved in perplexities and anxieties of different kind, which by degrees have increased, 'till they are become more ferious, dangerous and distressing, than any ever yet felt, by God's people, in this once happy land.

Through the crafty infinuations, falle representations and diabolical counfels, of the enemies of God's people and the common rights of mankind, in America and Britain, acts of oppression are made by the Parliament of England, in which we are not represented, which deeply affect our most valuable priviledges. In open violation of our chartered rights, thefe aels of unrighteousness and oppression, arc attempted to be carried into execution, in these colonies. After various threats of coercive measures, a military force is fent to inforce them. An innocent, loyal people are distressed, and every art, which wie or malice could invent, is used to flatter or fright, to divide or diffication, and finally fubject us to the will of a power, not known in our charters, or even in the British constitution itself. And as one of the natural confequences of standing armies being stationed in populous cities, for fuch exectable purpoles, many of the inhabitants of Boston are infulted. At length, under pretence of ill-treatment, the ffreets of that once flourishing city, are stained with the innscent blood of a number of our brethren, wantonly or cruelly flain, by those fons of oppression and violence !* Upon the high references of the people, in confequence of this harrid surveys and violence, there was, for a fhort time, a paule in their meafures.---101

* This refers to the horrid massacre, in Biston, on the evening of the 5th of March, 1770, when the gaards, under the command of Capt. Preston, hred upon the inhabitants, in Kieg street, killed 5 perions upon the spot, and wounded a number of others, several of whom asterwards died of their woulds!

24 The fate of blood-thirsty oppressions, and

For a moment the oppressions themselves seemed to be struck with the horrid effects of their own iniquitous proceedings, and fland aghast at the fight of the innocent blood they had shed! Perhaps they were not, at that time, fo thoroughly hardened in fin. as they have proved themselves fince !---But this pause feemed to be, not to repent of their evil deeds, but rather to collect themfelves, and devife fome meafures more effectual : For so far from giving over the execrable design, the plan of oppression is renewed. New acts are passed to distress and inflave us. The lust of domination appears no longer in difguife, but with open face.-The flarving Port-Bill comes forth-Gage arrives with his forces by sea and land, to carry it into execution, with vigour and feverity.--And to compleat the feene, and at once, to make thorough work of oppression and tyranny, immediately follow the Bills, that fubvert the conflication, vacate our charter, abridge us of the right of trial by juries of the vicinity, in divers fpecified capital cafes, and expose us to be seized, contrary to the laws of the land, and carried to England to be tried for our lives !--As also the Bill for establishing the popilb religion in Canada, contrary to the faith of the crown and the ftatutes of the kingdom. Add to thefe things, the people are treated, in various inflances, with indignity, feverity and even cruelty And, notwithstanding every possible expression of a peaceful disposition, in this people, consistent with a determined resolution and christian firmness, in defence of their rights and liberties, which they held dearer than life, their property is frequently and violently feized, and even their perfons and lives are threatened. The inhabitants of Salem are to confult upon matters of importance to themfelves and the public, as they had an undoubted right to do, by the standing laws of the colony. A number of the most respectable inhabitants of that town, were arrested and threatened with imprisonment, by General Gage's order, for calling the inhabitants together, at the meeting aforefaid. The province stores of powder, which were deposited at Medford, were also clandestinely feized, by a large detachment of the troops, and conveyed with all possible dispatch, to Boston; as were, at the same time, also, fome field-pieces at Cambridge.+ Intrenchments are throwing up, by Gage's army, and the town of Boston becomes a garrison, and the inhabitants become prisoners, at the pleasure of the troops And notwithstanding Gaze's repeated professions, of having.

marched, by Gage's order, into the town of Salem, with orders (as it was faid) to fire upon the inhabitants, if they refufed to difperfe.---But, as it happened, they had accomplished the affairs upon which they met, before the troops arrived, and even before they knew of their approach. I his happily prevented the troops the opportunity of executing their orders, and of fbedding of blood, for that time.

+ This feizure of the flores, &c. roufed the people more than any thing, that had happened before. Accordingly, the next day, viz. Sept. 2. 1774 feveral thom ands not of the rab le, as minifterial birelings have been disposed to speak; but of the respectable freeholders and free men of the adjacent towns, collected a: Cambridge; and to flew their refertment at such hostile measures, and their determined resolution never to submit to the oppressive ads, without tumult or outrage, called Lieut. Governor Oliver, and a number more of the mandamus councellors before them, and invited them to refign their feats at the board, and to declare, in a very solemn manner, that they never would hold any office or post, by virtue of faid acts. The gentlemen applied to, complied with their proposals, to general fausfaction.

Whether this step, of the people, was prudent and justifiable, or not; it ferved to difcover their fentiments of the acts, of which #### they complained, and their determined refulution to oppose them : And this was the main thing aimed at, by the steps the, took, upon this occasion.

The fate of blood-thirsty oppresses, anu

ing no defign against the lives, or liberties, of the people, every thing hath the appearance of bostile intentions, and of the near approach of blood sted and war.*

Many inhabitants both of the town and country, are daily abused and infulted, by the troops. The devotion of God's people, in their worfhipping affemblies, is frequently interrupted, and marks of the utmost contempt ale cast upon religion ilself. Bodies of troops from time to time march into the country, with a view (as was supposed) to alarm, terrify, or awe the inhabitants to a fubmillion. On the Sabbath, a day held facred to God and religion, by christians, while God's people were in his houle, engaged in devotion and the inflituted fervice. of religion, a detachment of these instruments of tyranny and oppression, clandestinely landed at Marblehead, and making a quick march to Salem, attempt to seize upon some cannon and other military stores deposited there to be ready for use, if wanted upon any important emergency :- But, happily, they are disappointed in their defigns, by the spirit and resolution of the inhabitants, who fpeedily collected upon that alarming occasion.+ At * Gen. Gage repeatedly declared, in his answers to the remonstrances of the town of Boston, the county of Worcester and the Provincial Congress, that he had no hostile intentions, in any of these measures. With what truth and fincerity, the Generat made such declarations, his after conduct fully determined.

+ This unfuccef-ful expedition was made on LORD's day, Feb. 26, 1775. The party confided of about 200 or 300 men; it was commanded by Lieue. Col. Leflie. The veffels which brought them to Marblehead, arrived in the harbour, on the morning of the fabbath; and the better to conceal their intentions, lay quietly, at anchor, near to the wharves, with but very few hands upon deck (the troops being kept clofe) 'till the peo#### ple of the town were allembled for the fervices of religion. While the inhabitants were thus engaged in their devotions to Gon, the party landed and made a fpeedy march to Salem. But

At length, on the night of the eighteenth of April. 1775, the alarm is given of the hostile designs of the troops. The militia of this town are called together, to confult and prepare for whatever might be necessary, or in their power, for their own, and the common fafety; though without the leaft defign of commencing hostiliies, upon these avowed cnemies and oppressors of their country. In the mean time, under cover of the darkness, a brigade of thefe inftruments of violence and tyranny, make their approach, and with a quick and filent march, on the morning of the ninetcenth, they enter this town. And this is the place where the fatal scene Segins !-- They approach with the morning's light; and more like murderers and cut-throats, than the troops of a christian king, without provocation, without arning, when no war was preclaimed, they draw the just of violence, upon the inhabitants of this town, and with a cruelty and harbarity, which would have made the most handned lavage blush, they flee. INNOCENT BLOOD!-Eut, O my GOD!-How shall I speak !--- or how describe the diffresh the born or of that aroful morn, that gloomy day !--Tonder I field can withels the innocent blood of our brethren flain !-- And from thence does their blood cry unt. God for vengeance from the ground !--There the tender father bled, and there the beloved fon !- There the hoary head, and there the bloon. 1P.A

But all their precaution did not avail them for the accomplish ment of their enterprize. The cogle-eyes of a watchful and warr people, juilly jealous of every measure of their opprefiors, are not easily evaded. Their motions were observed, and fuel timely notice given, that fuch numbers were collected and fuce measures taken, before they arrived, as effectually fruitrate.

their defign and obliged them to return defeated and chagr no. CP The field (not of battle) but of murder and bladje where our men were fired upon by the troops.

28 The fate of blood thirsty oppress, and

ing youth !--- And there the man in his full firength, with the man of years !-They bleed -they die. not by the fword of an open enemy (with whom war is proclaimed) in the field of battle ; but by the hand of those that delight in spoil, and lurk privity that they may fied innocent blood !- But they bleed, they die, not in their own caufe only; but in the caufe of this whole people—in the caufe of God, their country and posterity.-A. d they have not bled, they shall not bleed in vain.-Surely there is one that avengeth, and that will plead the caufe of the injured and oppreffed; and in his own way and time, will both cleanse and avenge their innocent blood.-And the names of Munoe, Parker, and others, that fell victims to the rage of blood-thirfly oppressors, on that gloomy morning. Ihall be had in grateful remembrance, by the people of this land, and transmitted to posterity, with honour and refpect, throughout all generations.* -But who fhall comfort the diffrested relatives,--the mourning widows, the fatherlefs children, the weeping parents, or the afflicted friends ?--- May the confolations of that God, who hath hitherto supported them, be still their support !- Upon him may they ffill depend, and from him and his grace may they till derive all needed supplies. in things spiritual and temporal; and yet more and more experience the faithfulnels and truth, the mercy and goodnels, of the God of all confort. Biay

The perfons killed, in the morning, when hofilities were fril commenced, were, Meflicurs Rebert Manro, Jenas Parker, Somuel Hauley, Jonathan Harrington, jur. Haac Mazzy, Caleb Horrington and John Brown, of Lexington; and one — Porter, et Wobury. Wounded, Jedediah Munro, Thomas Winthip, Na hand harmer, John Robbirs, Solonion Peirce, John Tidd, Joseph Conce, Evenczer Manro, jun. and Prince, a Negro, of homogue, and Jacob Bacon, of Weilurn. Afternoon. Killed. Weilurd Harmer, John Robbirs, and Nathaviel Wyman. Woundin point weiltic enemy, when retreating, Francis Brown, en 40 - 100 g 00.

May those that were wounded, and have fince experienced the tender mercy of that God, "who woundeth, and healeth, and bindeth up," be deeply impressed with a fease of his diffinguishing goodness, that their lives were spared, while others were taken; and be perfueded, more entirely than ever, to devote them to God, his fervice and glory.

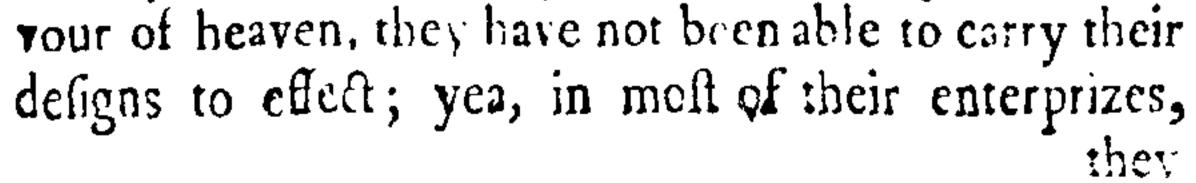

May all in this place, still carefully remember, notice and improve this awful difpensation. - Particularly, it concerns, not only those whose substance hath been plundered, and whole habitations have been burnt, by these lawless invaders; but alf ) all, in general, diligently and ferioufly to enquire, wherefore it is, that a righteous God is contending with us, by the fire and sword of the oppressor :- And wherefore it is that this awful scene, of blood-shed and war, was opened in this place. May we still humble ourfelves before God, under a sense of the terrible things. which in righteousness he hath done in the midst of us. May we also be deeply impressed, with a most grateful lense of the goodness of God, in that so much mercy was remembred in judgment; that so few were found among the wounded and flain, and so few habitations were confumed by the fire of the enemy, when fo many were spared, that were equally exposed. And may this day be remembred, to the glory of God, and our own instruction and improvement, to long as we live. But it is not by us alone, that this day is to be noticed.-This ever memorable day is fu'l of importance to all around-to this whole land and nation; and big with the fate of Great-Britain and America.---From this remarkable day will an important ara begin for both America and Britain. And from the

nineteenth of April, 1775, we may venture to predict, will be dated, in future hiftory, THE LIBER-TY

30 The fate of blood-thirsty oppressors, and

TY or SLAVERY of the AMFRICAN WORLD, according as a fovereign God shall see fit to smile, or frown upon the interesting cause, in which we are engaged.

How far the prophecy before us, may be applicable, upon this folemn occasion, and with what dcgree of truth, or probability, it may be predicted, in consequence of the prefent unjust and unnatural war, " that Great-Britain shall be a defolation, and England be a desolate wilderness, for the violence against the children of America, because they have fhed INNOCENT BLOOD in their land : But America shall dwell forever, and this people from generation to generation. And the LORD himself will cleanse their blood, that he hath not already cleansed."-How far (I fay) this prophecy may be applicable, in the prefent interesting contest, and how far it may be accomplished in the issue thereof, God only knows, and time only can difcover.-But of this we are certain, if we "humble ourfelves under the mighty hand of God upon us, we fhall be exalted, in his due time;" and if we rightly improve his dealings, "accept the panishment of our fins" and righteoufly truft in his name, we shall see his falvation. From what hath already happened, in the rife and progrefs, and even unto the prefent flate of this most intereding conflict, we have the greatest reason to hope for an happy iffue, in the end. Though with fire and sword, our encinies and opprefers have endeavoured to lay w ste and destroy, and though they have begun and caried on the war, fo far as their power could enable them, with more than favage cruelty and barbarity; yet, through the puculiar fa-

31 The fate of blood-thirsty oppress, &c.

they have been greatly disappointed.-Not to fay defeated and difgraced.-Instead of awing the people into fubmillion, by those measures of violence and cruelty, with which they commenced hoffilities against us, as they undoubtedly expected, their spirits have been roused and awakened thereby. beyond what any other means could have ever affected : and with a union and firmnefs, exceeding the most fanguine expectations, they have armed to defend themselves and their country, and to revenge the injuries received and the innocent blood of their brethren flain. And a merciful God, in various inftances, hath crowned our arms with fuccefs and victory. Not only the acquisitions at the westward, and the progress of our army in Canada, but the prefervation and defence of this colony; and above all, the unexpected evacuation of the tszon of Boston, which, at such immense cost, they had fortified, and had fo long in their poffeffion -and their defiroying the works of their own hands, which with fo much labour and expence, they had crected; befpeak the special favour of heaven, to this injured and oppressed people; and appear to be happy omens of those further fuccesles, which are necessary to compleat our deliverance, and render this land a quiet habitation. May that God, who is a God of righteoufness and falvation, still appear for us, go forth with our armies, tread down our enemies, and cleanse and avenge our inneent blood. And may we be prepared, by a general repentance and thorough refermation, for his gracious and powerful interpolition in our behalf; and then may we fee the difplays of his power and glory for our falvation. Which Get of his infinite mercy grant, for his mercy's fales in Could Jefus.

A M E N.

( 1)

À NARRATIVE, &c.

As it was not confiftent with the limits of a fingle discourse, to give a full account of the particulars of this most lavage and murderous affair; the following plain and faithful narrative of facts, as they appeared to us in this place, may be matter of satisfaction.

× 1

O N the evening of the eighteenth of April, 1775, we received two messages; the first verbal, the other by express, in writing, from the committee of safety, who were then siting in the westerly part of Cambridge, directed to the Honorable JOHN HANCOCK, Esq; (who, with the Honorable SAMUEL ADAMS, Esq; was then providentially with us) informing, "that eight or nine efficers of the king's troops were seen, just before night, passing the road towards Lexington, in a musing, contemplative posture; and it was suspected they were out upon some evil defign."

As both these gentlemen had been frequently and even publicly, threatened, by the enemies of this people, both in England

To prevent any thing of this kind, ten or twelve men were immediately collected, in arms, to guard my house, through the night.

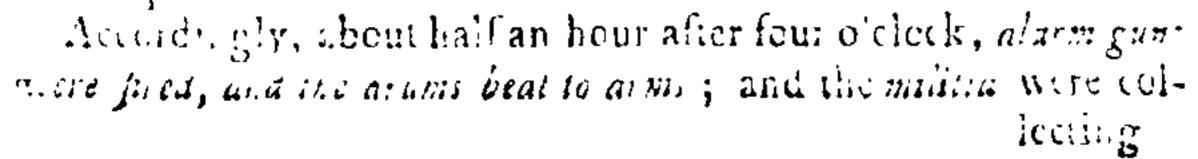

In the mean time, faid officers paffed through this cown, on the road towards Concord: It was therefore thought expedient to watch their motions, and if poffible make fome difference of their intentions. Accordingly, about 10 o'clock in the evening, three men, on horfes, were difpatched for this purpofe. As they were praceably paffing the road towards Concord, in the borders of Lincoln, they were fuddenly ftopped by faid efficers, who rode up to them, and putting pillois to their breatls and feizing their horfes bridles, favore, if they flirred another flep, they fhould be all dead men 1—The efficers detained them feveral hours, as priferers, examined, fearched, abufed and infulted them; and in their hafty return (fappofing thomfelves differed) they left them in Levington.—Said officers alfo took into cuilody, abufed and threatened with their lives feveral other perfons; fome of whom they met peaceably paffing on the road, others even at the doors #### of their dwellings, without the leaft prevocation, on the part of the inhabitants, or formuch as a quellion affeed by them. Between

2

Between the hours of twelve and one, on the morning of the NINETEENTH OF APRIL, we received intelligence, by express, from the Honorable JOSEPH WARREN, Esq; at Boston, "that a large body of the king's troops (supposed to be a brigade of about 12, or 1500) were embasked in boats from Boston, and gone over to land on Lechmere's Point (so called) in Cambridge: And that it was threwdly suspected, that they were ordered to feize and destroy the stores, belonging to the celony, then deposited at Concord," in confequence of General Gage's unjustifiable feizure of the provincial magazine of powder at Medford, and other celony stores in feveral other places.

Upon this intelligence, as also upon information of the conduct of the officers as above mentioned, the militra of this town were alarmed, and ordered to meet on the usual place of parade; not with any defign of commencing bostilities upon the king's troops. but to confult what might be done for our own and the people's safety: And also to be ready for whatever service providence might call us out to, upon this alarming occasion, in cafe wert alls of violence, or open bestilities should be committed by this mercenary band of armed and blood-thirsty oppressors. About the same time, two persons were sent express to Cambridge, if possible, to gain intelligence of the motions of the troops, and what rout they took. The militia met according to order ; and waited the return of the messengers, that they might order their measures as occafion should require. Between 3 and 4 o'clock, one of the expresses returned, informing, that there was no appearance of the troops, on the roads, either from Cambridge or Charlestonun; and that it was supposed that the moments in the army the evening before, were only a feint to alarm the people. Upon this, therefore, the militia company were difinisfied for the prefent, but with orders to be within call of the dium,-waiting the return of the ot er messenger, who was expected in about an hour, or sooner, if any difference thould be made of the motions of the troops.--But he was provented by their illent and fudden arrival at the place where he was, waiting for intelligence. So that, after all this precaution, we had no notice of their approach, 'till the brigade was astually in the town, and upon a quick march within about a mile and a quarter of the meeting henje and place of farada. However, the commanding officer inought belt to call the company tegether, --- not with any defign of oppofing fo fuperior a force, mach lejs of commercing possibilities; but only with a view to determine what to do, when and where to meet, and to difnils and different.

( 3 )

lefting together.---Some, to the number of about 50, or 60, or poffibly more, were on the parade, others were coming towards it.-In the mean time, the troops, having thus stolen a march upon us, and to prevent any intelligence of their approach, having seized and held prisoners several persons whom they met unarmed upon the road, seemed to come determined for MURDER and BLOODSHED; and that whether provoked to it, or not !---When within about half a quarter of a mile of the meeting-boule, they halted, and the command was given to prime and load ; which being done, they marched on 'till they came up to the cast end of said meeting-house, in sight of our militia ( collecting as aforesaid) who were about 12, or 13 rods distant .--- Immediately upon their appearing so suddenly, and so nigh, Capt. Parker, who commanded the militia company, ordered the men to disperse, and take care of themselves; and not to fire .-- Upon this, our men dispersed ;---but, many of them, not so speedily as they might have done, not having the most distant idea of such brutal barbarity and more than favage CRUELTY, from the troops of a Britifs KING, as they immediately experienced !-- !- For. no sooner did they come in fight of our company, but one of them, supposed to be an officer of rank, was heard to fay to the troops, " Damn them; we will have them !"--- Upon which the troops shouted aloud, huzza'd, and ruthed furiously towards our men.---About the fame time, three officers (supposed to be Col. Smith, Major Pitcairs and another officer) advanced, en horse back, to the front of the body, and coming within 5 or 6 rods of the militia, one of them cried out, "ye willains, ye Robels, difperfe; Dama you, difperfe !"- -or words to this effect. One of them (whether the fame, or not, is not eafily determined) · faid, · Lay donon your arms; Damn you, nuby don't you lay donon your arms !" -- The fecond of these officers, about this time, fired a pittol towards the militia, as they were dispersing .--- The foremolt, who was within a few yards of our men, brandifning his fword, and then pointing towards them, with a loud voice faid, to the troops, " Fire !-- By God, fire !"--which was instantly followed by a discharge of arms from the faid troops, fucceeded by a very heavy and close file upon our party, difperfing, fo long as any of them were within reach .--- Eight were left dead upon the ground !* Ten nuere avounded .--- The rest of the company, through divine goodness, were (to a miracle) preserved unhurt in this murderous action !-----As to the queffion, & Who fired first? --- if it can be a question with any; we may obferve, that though General Gage hach been pleased to tell the world, in his account of this favage transaction,

" that the troops were fired upon by the rebels out of the meetinghouse,

* For the names of the kided and wounded, for Ser. page 28, note.

( 4 )

kouf?, and the neighbouring houses, as well as by those that were were in the field; and that the troops only returned the fire, and passed on their way to Concord;"---yet nothing can be more certain than the contrary, and nothing more false, weak, or wicked, than such a representation.

To fay nothing of the abfurdity of the fuppofition, " that 50, 60, or even 70 men, fhould, in the open field, commence befilities with 12, or 1500, of the beft troops of Britain," nor of the known determination of this finall party of Americans, upon no confideration whatever, to begin the feene of blood  $\ddagger$ -A cloud of witneffes, whofe veracity cannot be juftly diffuted, upon catbout have declared, in the moft exploses and politive terms, " that the British troops fired first :  $\ddagger$ -And I think, we may fafely add, without the least reason or provocation.--Nor was there opportunity given, for our men to have faved themtelves, either by laying down their arms, or differing, as directed, had they been differed to; as the command to fire upon them was given almost at the fame instant, that they were ordered, by the British efficers, to difference, the down their arms, &c.

In fhort, fo tas from firing first upon the king's troops; upon the most careful enquiry. It as pears, that but very few of our people fired at all; and even they did not fire till after being fired upon by the troops, they were wounded themselves, or law others killed, or woulded by them, and looked upon it next to impossible for them to escape. As to any firing from the meetin-beule, as Gage reprefents; it is certain, that there were but flur men in the meeting house, when the troops came up : and they were then getting fime ammunition, from the town flock, and had not fo much as loaded their guns (except onc, who never discha ged it) when the troops fired upon the militia. A' d as to the min bleuring henses, it is equally certain, that there was o fiving from them, unlefs, after the dispersion of our men, Line, who had fied to them for shelter, r ight fire from them upon the treeps. One encumtience more, bestere the brigade quitted Lexington, I beg leave to mention, as what may give a further specimen of the furn and characler, of the officers and men, of this body of scoops .-- Alter the milita company were disperfed and the firing ceased, * Inco, or Ageo, was the number we then supposed the brigade to confift of : through afterwards, by the best accounts, it appeared, that there were but about Sec.

Them a most intimate acquaintance with the featiments of the inhabitants at this to the collected in arms, I think I may heldly affert, that it was at a score n determination not to commence hostilities, upon the king's troops ; though they were equally determined to flard by their rights to the laft.

; See narrative and depositions, published by authority.

ceased, the troops drew up and formed, in a body on the common, fired a wolley and gave three buzzas, by way of triumph, and as expressive of the joy of VICTORY and glory of CON-QUEST !--!-- Of this transaction, I was a witness, having, at that time, a fair view of their motions, and being at the distance of not more than 70 or 80 rods from them.

Whether this step was bonorary to the detachment, or agreeable to the rules of war .-- or how far it was expressive of bravery, heroism and true military glory, for 800 disciplined troops of Great-Briain, without notice or provocation, to fall upon 60, or 70, undisciplined Americans, who neither opposed nor molested them, and murder iome and disperse the rest, and then to give the fout and make the triumph of wittory, is not for me to determine ; but must be submitted to the impartial world to judge.-That " there is a God with whom is the power, and the glory, and the victory," is certain :. but whether he will fet bis feal to the triumph, made upon this most peculiar occasion, by following it with further fucceffes, and finally giving up this people into the hands of those, that have thus cruelly commenced hostilities against them, must be left to time to discover.-...But to return from this digression, if it may be called a disgression. Having thus wanquished the party in Lexington, the troops marched on for Concord, to execute their orders, in destroying the stores belonging to the colony, deposited there---They met with no interruption in their march to Concord. --- But by fome means or other, the people of Concord had notice of their approach and deligns, and were alarmed about break of day; and collecting as foon, and as many as possible, improved the time they had before the troops came upon them. to the best advantage, both for concealing and fecuring as many of the public flores as they could, and in preparing for defence. -- By the stop of the troops at Lexington, many thousands were faved to the colony, and they were, in a great measure, frustrated in their defign. When the troops made their approach to the easterly part of the town, the provincials of Concord and some neighbouring towns, were collected and collecting in an advantageous post, on a hill, a little distance from the meeting-bouse, north of the road, to the number of about 150, or 200: but finding the troops to be more than three times as many, they wifely retreated, first to a hill about 80 rods further north, and then over the northbridge (so called) about a mile from the town : and there they waited the coming of the militia of the towns adjacent, to their assistance.

In the mean time, the British detachment marched into the center of the town. A party of about 200, was ordered to take ### possession of faid bridge, other parties were dispatched to various parts of the town, in fearch of public flores, while the remainder were employed in feizing and deftroying, whatever they could find in the town-house, and other places, where flores had been lodged.---But before they had accomplished their defign, they were interrupted by a discharge of arms, at faid bridge.

It feems, that of the party above-mentioned, as ordered to take possession of the bridge, one half were marched on about two miles, in fearch of flores, at Col. Barrei's and that part of the town : while the other half, confisting of towards 100 men, under Capt. Lawrie, were left to guard the bridge. The provincials, who were in fight of the bridge, observing the troops attempting to take up the planks of said bridge, thought it necessary to dislodge them, and gain possession of the bridge.---They accordingly marched, but with express orders not to fire, unless first fired upon by the king's troops. Upon their approach towards the bridge, Capt. Lawrie's party fired upon them, killed Capt. Davis and another man dead upon the spot, and wounded feveral others. Upon this our militia rushed on, with a spirit becoming free-born Americans, returned the fire upon the enemy, killed 2, wounded several and drove them from the bridge, and purfued them towards the town, 'till they were covered by a reinforcement from the main body. The provincials then took post on a hill, at some distance, north of the town : and as their numbers were continually increasing, they were preparing to give the troops a proper discharge, on their departure from the town. In the mean time, the king's troops collected; and having dressed their wounded, destroyed what stores they could find, and infulted and plundered a number of the inhabitants, prepared for a zetreat. "While at Concord, the troops disabled two 24 pounders; destroyed their 2 carriages, and seven wheels for the same, with their limbers. Sixteen wheels for brass 3 pounders, and 2 carriages with limber and wheels for two 4 pounders. They threw into the river, wells, &c. about goo weight of ball : and flove about 60 barrels of flour ; but not having time to perfect their work, one half of the flour was afterwards faved."* The troops began a hafty retreat about the middle of the day : and were no fooner out of the town, but they began to meet the effects of the just resentments of this injured people. The provincials fired upon them from various quarters, and pursued them (though without any military order) with a firmness and intrepidity, beyond what could have been expected, on the first onset, and in such a day of confusion and distress !--- The fire was returned, for a time, with great fury, by the troops as they

retreated,

* See Rev. Mr. Gordon's account.

retreated, though (through divine goodnefs) with but little execution.---This fcene continued, with but little intermission, till they returned to Lexington; when it was evident, that, having lost numbers in killed, wounded, and prisoners that fell into our hands, they began to be, not only fatigued, but greatly disheartened. And it is supposed they must have foons urrendered at discretion, had they not been reinforced.---But Lord Percy's arrival with another brigade, of about 1000 men, and 2 field pieces, about half a mile from Lexington meeting-heuse, towards Cambridge, gave them a feasonable respite.

The coming of the reinforcement, with the cannon, (which our people were not fo well acquainted with then, as they have been fince) put the provincials also to a pause, for a time....But no fooner were the king's troops in motion, but our men renewed the pursuit with equal, and even greater ardor and intrepidity than before, and the firing on both fides continued, with but little intermission, to the close of the day, when the troops entered Charlestown, where the provincials could not follow them, without exposing the worthy inhabitants of that truly patriotic town, to their rage and revenge .--- That night and the next day, they were conveyed in boats, over Charles-River to B ston, glad to fecure themselves, under the cover of the shipping, and by strengthning and perfecting the fortifications, at every part, . against the further attacks of a justly incensed people, who, upon intelligence of the murderous transactions of this fatal day, were collecting in arms, round the town, in great numbers, and from every quarter. In the retreat of the king's troops from Concord to Lexington, they ravaged and plundered, as they had opportunity, more or less, in most of the houses that were upon the road.---But after they were joined by Piercy's brigade, in Laxington, it feemed as if all the little remains of humanity had left them ; and rage and revenge had taken the reins, and know no bounds !- Closibing, furniture, provisions, goods, plundered, broken, carried off, or defloyed ! -- Buildings (especially drucking houses) abused, defa. A, battered, fbattered and almost ruined !-- And as is this had not been enough, numbers of them doomed to the flumes ! .- Three druelling houses, two shops and a bar, were laid in ashes, in Lexing. n? .- Many others were set on fire, in this town, in Cambridge, Sc. and must have shared the same fate, had not the close pursuit of the provincials prewented, and the flames been feasonably quenched !-. Edd to all this; the unarmed, the aged and inform, about our unable to the, are inhumanly flabbed and murdered in their habitations !- You, even women in child-bed, with their helpings babes in their arrays, as not escape the the borrid alternative, of being either cruelly murdered in their beds, burnt in their babitations, or turned into the fireets to perifb with cold, nakedness and distress *!--But I forbear--words are too insignificant to express, the horrid barbarities of that distressing day !--!--!+

8 )

Our loss, in the feveral actions of that day, was 49 killed, 34 wounded and 5 missing, who were taken prisoners, and have fince been exchanged. The enemy's loss, according to the best accounts, in killed, wounded and missing, about 300.

As the war was thus began with Jawage cruelty, in the aggreffors; fo it has been carried on with the fame temper and ipirit, by the enemy in but too many inftances. Witnels the wanton eruelty, difcovered in burning Charleftown, Norfolk, Falmouth, &cc. But as events which have taken place fince the ever memorable mineteenth of April, 1775, do not properly come within the compafs of this narrative, they mult be left for fome abler pen to relate.

* See dep. published by authority.

+ " Quorum parts magna fui !!! VI2-

E R R A T A. SERMON, page 9, line 10, dele im. Page 13, line 15, read proudest. Page 16, line 1, read confirmed. ibid, line 13, read disciplines Page 19, line 6, read even. Page 20, line 7, read defence. ib. Note, line 10, read Boston. Page 23, line 1, read of a different. ib. line 14, read coercive. Page 25, line 13, read thrown. Page 30, line 24, read religionsy. ib. line 34, read peculiar. Page 31, line 7, read effected.

3 N

7 Nº 61

•